Title: Tunstall Empowers Individuals this World Cancer Day

This World Cancer Day, 4 February 2010, Tunstall Healthcare will support thousands of Australian's living with cancer and other chronic illnesses, by providing telecare and telehealth services.

Tunstall's 24 hour response centre answers thousands of calls a week from people needing emergency aid, assistance from a friend or just someone to speak to during lonely times.

Once an alarm is installed, the resident carries a radio trigger pendant with them while in the home, allowing them to quickly and easily activate an emergency call for assistance.

The pendant can be worn around the neck, on the wrist or can be clipped to clothing.

When the pendant is pressed one of Tunstall's response operators will answer the call and speak with the resident to find out what the situation is and the assistance they require.

The response operator will also stay on the line with the resident until help arrives, reassuring them to stay calm so they feel supported while they wait.

Tunstall understands that living with a chronic illness like cancer can be an isolated lonely time, and welcomes calls for a quick "hello" and "how are you today", ensuring that residents feel safe and supported in their own home.
