Press Release

For Immediate Release

Hearing Awareness Week 23-29 August

Title: The Sound of Independence

One in six Australian's suffer from hearing loss¹ but with Tunstall Healthcare, the world's leading provider of telehealthcare, you can feel safe and secure in your own home, knowing that you can make quick and easy contact with a 24 hour response centre, or carer if and when you need it.

When a Tunstall personal alarm is installed in the home, the resident can summon help at the press of a button and make quick and easy contact with Tunstall's 24 hour response centre.

The alarm has a powerful speaker that can be adjusted to cater to the hearing needs of the individual.

Alternately, other communication techniques can be used for people with more advanced hearing loss, allowing them to continue living independently, knowing they can get help if and when they need it.

Tunstall also has a range of solutions that assist someone with hearing loss to carry out their everyday activity in the home.

Worn on the hip or in the pocket, the Bellman Visit Pager Receiver alerts the wearer of noise and activity in the home such as, a crying baby, door bell, ringing phone and fire alarm so they can act accordingly.

The Bellman Visit Pager can even be connected to Tunstall's personal alarm to alert the wearer that someone has activated an alarm call for assistance.

The Bellman Visit Flash receiver works like the pager, using flashing lights to notify the resident of activity in the home.

Likewise, the Bellman Bed Shaker and Alarm Clock Receiver are used in the bedroom, shaking and flashing to get the residents attention.

With Tunstall's personal alarm and Bellman solutions, Tunstall aims to assist people with hearing loss to maintain their confidence and independence in the home.
