Iris

Iris is 80 and lives on her own in the family home. She is quite frail, uses a walking stick and has a high risk of falls. One night when Iris got up to use the bathroom the power went out and she tripped. Iris activated her Tunstall personal alarm and notified the response centre that her leg hurt. She also reported that all of her responders were away, so there was no family to call to get help.

The response centre called an ambulance to assist. Iris already had a key safe installed outside her home, so the ambulance was able to get quick access to her. Iris was very grateful that because of the alarm and key safe she did not have to wait long for help.

Jean

Jean is 79 and lives alone. While her adult children live nearby, they work full time so she only sees them every couple of weeks. Thanks to her Tunstall personal alarm and key safe, Jean feels confident being alone and knows that she will be able to get help if and when she needs it.

“I think it is wonderful to have so your family or emergency services can get in to you in an emergency”.

Prior to getting the key safe Jean locked herself out of the house and had to get her neighbour to help her lift the sliding door off the tracks. Jean’s neighbour ended up breaking the whole glass door. Jean laughs when she tells the story and knows that a simple key safe would have saved a lot of time and money.
